MAKE A BIG DEMONSTRATION

ARRIVES AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—When members of the Hughes women campaign party, which is touring the country on a special train, stepped off from their train here today they were unexpectedly confronted by representatives of the working women's independent Wilson league, who, having pushed themselves in front of the receiving line, unfurled large banners directly across the path of the Hughes campaigners.

heads of the crowd, bore inscriptions antagonistic to the visitors' candidate. One banner said: "No working women need apply on the Hughes millennaire special." Another read:
"We want Wilson and the eight-hour day." Still another read: "Welfare work won't do; we want Wilson and industrial democracy."

"The Anthony amendment is not in the republican platform," another read. "Wilson voted for suffrage; Hughes did not."

Women Smile and Pass On.

The Hughes women stopped for a moment, read the banners, smiled and passed on to waiting automobiles.

TALKS ON BANKING.

How the Savings Bank Helps.

The savings bank has been likened to a reservoir into which flow the little streams to be assembled into one mass, out of which flows the larger stream, powerful because of its volume. The savings bank bestows its greatest benefits upon the individual and the community by this reservoir process. Scattered dollars are impotent dollars. Assembled dollars are powerful dollars. A thousand dollars divided among a thousand different men are of little consequence to the possessor or to the body as a whole, but when the thousand dollars are the property of one individual, they become of vastly more power than the sum total of the individual units. The congregated funds move in one direction, and has a common aim, whereas the scattered dollars all have different ends and aims.

The beneficial work of the savings bank can be seen by a simple illustration, drawn from actual fact and in process in savings banks every day.
Let us assume that a hundred people have deposited ten dollars each in a savings bank, thereby making a fund of a thousand dollars under the control of the banker. One of the members of the group wishes to erect a house, having the land paid for. He applies to the bank for a loan of a thousand dollars, and is granted the use of the money deposited by the other members of the group. The carpenters, masons, plumbers, painters, etc., are employed and the fund begins to do its work.

Each workman depends for his pay upon the savings bank, which will make advances from time to time as the work progresses. Not alone the men who are directly employed, but the material dealer who furnishes the brick, stone and mortar, the lumberman and the iron worker—where-ever material is produced or manufactured the stimulus of this operation is felt.

The bulk of the money goes to labor, to be spent for food, clothing, shelter and amusement, and all the industries that cater to the wants of man feel the benefits. It passes from hand to hand, down through the courses of society until eventually it finds its way back into some bank for a similar operation.

When a school district issues a block of bonds to build a new school house, a city for street pavements, sewers, water, parks, etc., the same results follow—labor gets the benefit.
And from the portion that is not used for immediate satisfaction of the wants of men, a portion finds its way back into the bank to be united with other thrift dollars to benefit the masses.

When it is remembered that a single savings bank in New York has on its books today over seven thousand open mortgage loans, representing forty million dollars thus placed in circulation, the far reaching effects of the savings bank will become manifest.

We might well claim the savings bank to be a builder of cities, for it has for a century been assembling money from the many to lend to the few, to be passed out again through the pay envelope for the benefit of the many.

Every time you enter a well-kept home, cross a well-paved street, walk in the park, draw a cup of water, send your children to school—yes, it may be tear open your pay envelope—you may owe a debt of gratitude to some savings bank for furnishing the money that made all these things possible. You can best pay your debt by joining "the army of the contented" who use the savings bank as the reservoir to store their savings, to be passed out again with the savings of others for the benefit of mankind.

Enormous Loss of Stock by Fever.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 7.—The annual loss of horses in this country from influenza, or shipping fever, is in the neighborhood of $50,000,000, according to a statement made this morning by Dr. H. W. Hawley, inspector for the department of agriculture at Washington, who was in consultation with Dr. D. M. Hinckley, state veterinarian.

Dr. Hawley said that in some of the eastern states from 50 to 70 per cent of the horses and mules purchased by dealers in rural districts and handled through western and central western markets come down with the disease on route or within a few days after arrival, and the loss from this in some shipments is as high as 25 per cent. He was informed by Dr. Hinckley that from the latter's observation the death rate in the last year among horses and mules shipped out of Oklahoma for war purposes was from 15 to 20 per cent.

The death rate among horses and mules from this disease represents such a great financial loss to dealers that the government is investigating the situation with a view to organizing a co-operative campaign in all the states for its eradication, somewhat similar to its work in the southern states for the eradication of the Texas fever tick.

Dr. Hawley said that in one market alone, Chicago, the financial loss in one year from this disease amounted to more than $3,000,000. The results obtained from quarantining, cleaning and disinfecting in connection with the foot and mouth disease eradication work were valuable demonstrations of what can be accomplished through these means.

Dr. Hinckley suggested that in view of the seeming failure of serum treatments applied at the leading market centers sanitation work should be taken up at points of origin, which view was heartily coincided with by Dr. Hawley.

Kentucky already has taken action, having quarantined by proclamation against all horses coming in from St.
Louis and the national stock yards unless the animals have been inspected and the shipments made in disinfected cars approved by the bureau. It is believed that other states will take proper action to assist in controlling the disease, and the Washington bureau is arranging to cooperate with them to the fullest extent.
